SENATOR HATTIE W. CARAWAY

PAYING TRIBUTE . . .

Because she is the junior United States Senator from Arkansas; because she holds an honorary degree from Arkansas State College; because she has done more for our College than any other single individual, and because she is a worthy successor to a worthy predecessor, her late husband, the Honorable Thaddeus H. Caraway, is this book, The 1937 Indian, dedicated to United States Senator Hattie W. Caraway.

Mrs. Caraway has provided Arkansas State College with many advantages. The Reserve Officers' Training Corps Regiment, for instance, is one of her major contributions to the progress of the College.

She has always been ready to aid when help is needed; and, most notable, too, is the fact that her good work has not been done for political purposes, but because she has the best interests of the institution in her heart. Most of her work has been done out of the public view.

The editors are proud to dedicate this edition of the Arkansas State College Indian to Mrs. Caraway. We feel that of all the people connected with the College directly or indirectly United States Senator Hattie W. Caraway is the most deserving of this honor.

IN MEMORIAM

Into the shadows in the past three years, have gone three of Arkansas State College's most promising young men.

Melvin Horton of Lamar, Willie Alsup of Bay, and Guy Davis of Jonesboro, each an athlete, and each a prince, have departed from this life, to the sorrow of their friends and relatives.

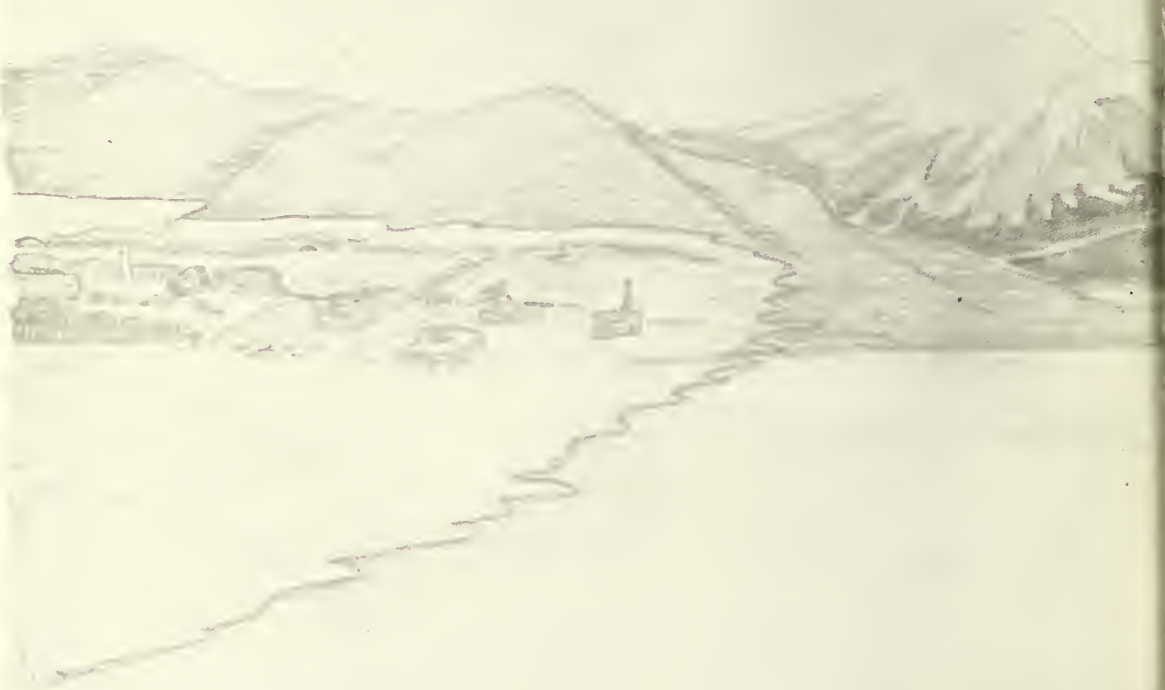

Melvin Horton, who had graduated in the spring of 1934, died that summer in a Jonesboro hospital following several weeks of illness.

Willie Alsup, a sophomore in 1935, was killed in an accident while returning to his home from an out-of-state trip. He was killed in the fall of 1935.

Guy Davis, a freshman in 1936, also lost his life in an accident. He was killed while working on the construction of a building in the summer of 1936.

Being mindful of the valuable lives which have thus left our midst, the editors pause to honor their memory.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends:

Your progress toward attainment of the objectives in life for which you have labored so conscientiously is proof of the accuracy of a prophetic vision. Courage and confidence, persistence and conscientiousness in service are the finest guarantees of success. The social requirements of a new deal and new day in the community and the nation will test the validity of your objectives and preparation.

You will be required to make contributions to the economic and social constructive forces of this new day. Optimism and a sense of values will preclude fear of failure and give you the assurance of success which will mean satisfaction for you in these meritorious activities of life.

We are prone to think of the economic phases of development in our present social readjustments. We should not forget the more fundamental and worthwhile spiritual revolution upon which success of this new conception of social relationships must be based. Arkansas State College is imposing on you the responsibility of emphasizing these intangible concepts of the spirit which give grace, truth, and permanent values to life.

Through all the vicissitudes of a busy life, may you dedicate your efforts to the building of a new and better world.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

R. WHITAKER President
MAURICE BLOCK Secretary

Arkansas State College has a Board of Trustees which keeps abreast of the times. The rapid progress made by the institution can be attributed largely to the cooperation and open-mindedness of the five members of this group.

R. Whitaker of Knobel, is president of the legislating body of the College, which is responsible to the state for the conduct of the institution. Mr. Whitaker became a member of the board in 1911.

W. L. Banks of Newport, is the oldest member of the Board in the point of service, having completed twenty-eight years as a member. He was appointed by Governor George W. Donaghey, who signed the bill creating the College.

Miss Pearle Davis of Forrest City, has been on the board since 1921.

Maurice Block of Paragould, has served on this responsible body for four years, having been appointed in 1933. He is secretary of the Board.

The most recent member of the Board is R. E. Lee Wilson, Jr., of Wilson, appointed in 1934 upon the death of his father, who had been a member for many years.

Although the average student goes through College and never knows any of the Board members personally, this highly important group is one of the most vital functioning organs of the College.

DEAN E. L. WHITSITT

IDEAN OF THE COLLEGE

His jolly whistle, his open-hearted frankness, and his patience with all students has earned Dean E. L. Whitsitt a place on the honor list of each young man and young woman attending the College.

Having been Dean of the College for many years, Mr. Whitsitt knows how to pull us out of the messes we get into with schedules, grade points, and other troubles which should be avoided but seldom are.

The Dean became a member of the faculty of Arkansas State in 1917, and has served continually since that time.

REGISTRAR

Holding one of the hardest jobs on the hill, Captain H. E. Eldridge does his work with strict efficiency. His position is an important one; his jobs are numerous. Despite his many duties he finds time to give advice when asked and help where needed.

Captain Eldridge joined the faculty in 1923. Keeping the records of the students in accurate condition is probably his hardest job. He holds an important assignment with natural ability and hard work.

REGISTRAR H. E. ELDRIDGE

DEAN H. W. HOLLARD

DEAN OF MEN

In charge of all men students on the campus, Henry W. Hollard is known as one of the most popular instructors on the hill. He has a tough job as Dean of Men, but gets along splendidly with his "Boys." Always a jump ahead, he seldom has trouble, and never any serious difficulties.

Mr. Hollard has been a member of the faculty for many years. He was here early in the College's history. He returned in 1927 after several years absence and has been here ever since.

DEAN OF WOMEN

In a responsible position, Mrs. Adelaide Rogers Gafke has been singularly successful. As Dean of Women, she holds one of the most difficult assignments on the hill. To her credit, moreover, no complaints have arisen during her tenure of this office. She is well-liked by all her charges.

Mrs. Gafke received her first college education on this campus, and after completing her studies, joined the faculty in 1931. She has been conducting an important department since that time.

Graduating this year, the Class of '37 completes four years of academic progress and social enlightenment, which has accrued to us through our contact with life at Arkansas State College.

Entering this institution of higher learning in the fall of 1933, we proceeded through the usual incubation period before entering the sophomore class in the fall of 1934. Bobby Lindsey of Marianna served as our president in the freshman year.

The year 1934 was Silver Jubilee Year, the celebration of the first twenty-five years of the College's existence. As sophomores of 1934 we did our part, led by Rex Castleberry of Jonesboro, our president, to enhance the success of this historical event.

In the fall of 1935 we had acquired enough knowledge to bear the title of juniors and to wear the look of upperclassmen. In the spring of 1936, the juniors sponsored a Junior-Senior Prom. We did our part in ushering out the class just ahead of us, in the Senior Swing-Out, impatiently awaiting our own title of seniors. Winford Wyatt of Jonesboro led the class as president in the junior year.

The dignity of seniors came in the fall of 1936. We climaxed our four years of College by successfully promoting the revival of the Arkansas State College "Yearling," which was re-named "The Indian" in a student-body poll, as more in keeping with the present. It was the first time in four years that the College had a regular annual. Serving as our president has been William Watson of Rector.

As we leave the halls of State College we will take with us treasured memories, many of which are inculcated in our greatest contribution to its progress, "The 1937 Indian."

With our third year rapidly drawing to a close, the Class of '38, which has the distinction of being one of the largest enrolled at Arkansas State College, eagerly looks forward to next September when we step up into the senior ranks.

In the fall of 1934 a group of over two hundred freshmen, somewhat bewildered and a little backward, entered the portals of State

College and sought to accustom themselves to a new environment. Within a few weeks college life began to spell a new meaning as members of the class began to adjust themselves and form lasting friendships.

After the spring semester opened, with Dean E. L. Whitsitt as sponsor, we elected Toler Buchanan of Walnut Ridge, as our president, and it was under his leadership that the class made headway in promoting its numerous activities during that year.

Returning to State in the fall of 1935 as sophomores, the members of our class found themselves in a much more cheerful and more settled frame of mind. Our many friendships formed during the past year were renewed. Studies even became more interesting as we grew more accustomed to the requirements of higher education. That year Max Miller of Campbell, Mo., was elected to pilot the class in its activities.

With the opening of the 1936-37 term, the class chose Orville Kellett of Williford, Ark., as its president, and it is under his leadership this year that we have progressed rapidly towards our goal of seniority.

MILLARD HARDIN

CLASS OF 1939

OFFICERS

Millard Hardin	- - - - -	President
John M. Walker	- - - - -	Vice-President
Herbert Coe	- - - - -	Secretary-Treasurer
Dr. Ashley Robey	- - - - -	Sponsor

Having completed one year of adjustment to the needs of college life, the class of '39 re-entered Arkansas State College last fall saddened by the loss of one of our leading members. Guy Davis, president of the class during the freshman year.

members of our class, Florence Austelle, of Little Rock, and they now live in California.

We sponsored a dance as freshmen and otherwise conducted ourselves in accordance with the best traditions of first-year classes.

Guy Davis had been elected president of the class during the second semester. One of our most prominent and most popular classmates, Guy seemed destined for a successful career when his promising life was snuffed out in an accident during the summer of 1936. So, when we returned to school in the fall of 1936 it was with hearts still heavy from the shock of his death.

The class elected Millard Hardin as president, and he has filled the office capably.

With picnics, parties, and other social events, we have found our sophomore year a very pleasant one. Next year we will move into the ranks of upperclassmen, the jump for which we have been preparing.

This year Dr. Ashley Robey has been our sponsor, and the jovial professor has aided us individually and collectively in many ways.

NEWTON KILLGUGH

CLASS OF 1940

OFFICERS

Newton Killough	- - - - -	President

Paul Gray	- - - - -	Treasurer
Dean E. L. Whitsitt	- - - - -	Sponsor

Entering Arkansas State College in the fall of 1936, we members of the class of 1940, look back over our first year of college experience with gladness and gaze eagerly into the future, when we, too, shall be seniors.

With Dean E. L. Whitsitt as our sponsor, we elected Newton Killough of Wynne, our class president in the early spring of this year.

We sponsored a dance for the benefit of the student body and members of our group.

keeping up the traditions of our class. Parties and picnics formed another part of our social life as freshmen.

Also keeping up the best traditions of the school, we went through the informal period during which freshmen are introduced to the intricacies of higher educational standards.

Wearing the green cap has become one of the freshman "do's" on our campus, and we fell in line, cheerfully, to maintain this tradition. It is our hope that succeeding classes will conduct themselves in like manner.

Despite the new surroundings in which we found ourselves last fall, we soon adjusted ourselves to the strange situations and became more and more in pleasant accord with collegiate requirements.

Following closely in the footsteps of classes which have preceded us, the "prosperity" class of 1940 hopes to surpass the greatest things which have been done by accomplishing even greater achievements.

We look forward to the next three years with a joyful anticipation of passing through the happiest stage of life, from freshman to senior.

STATE ARKANSAS COLLEGE

R. O. T. C.

MAJOR W. E. CORKILL

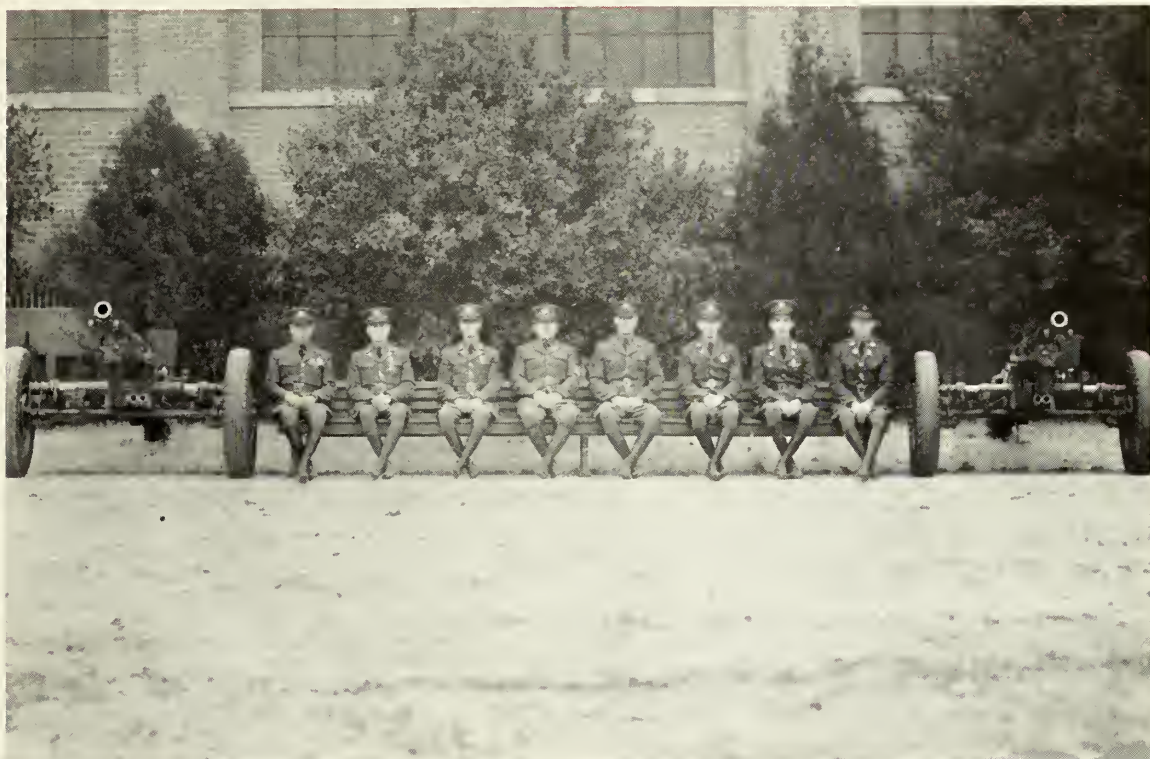

CAPT. JOHN LEWIS

CAPT. BONIFACE CAMPBELL

The first military department staff of any college faces the task of building the Reserve Officers Corps Unit from the ground up. Not only must the "day to day" problems of the Corps be solved, but long range policies must be adopted that will place the unit on a sound basis for the future.

Arkansas State College has been fortunate in its first military staff. Major Corkill, the first Professor of Military Science and Tactics, is an officer of wide and varied experience, of sound judgment and high professional qualifications. Captain Campbell, Adjutant of the unit, is a highly efficient officer. Captain Lewis is an instructor in the unit and also sponsors the Pistol Association.

Left to Right: Arthur Snodgrass, Luther G. Skari, Leon G. Mitchell, Frank F. Marino, Earl M. Gaines, Paul M. Campbell, Marvin J. Frost, Tyree J. Campbell.

ENLISTED DETACHMENT

"The backbone of the army is the noncommissioned man."—Kipling.

Officers of the regular army remain on any assignment for but a few years at most. This procedure is followed to give officers varied service and experience, and to assure an all-around development. The soldiers of the army, on the other hand, rarely change assignments. We look to them to provide the permanent personnel necessary for continuity of policy. Before being detailed on R. O. T. C. duty, an enlisted man is examined carefully as to character and ability.

State's first enlisted detachment numbers eight soldiers, with an aggregate service of one hundred and one years. The senior "noncom," Technical Sergeant Gaines, has served with the colors for over twenty-three years, more than half of this service having been on R. O. T. C. duty at Washington University, St. Louis, Mo. Technical Sergeant Marino is the "dean" of the detachment. With nearly thirty years continuous service in the cavalry and field artillery, in stations from Honolulu to France, Sergeant Marino is looking forward to a well-earned retirement. The remaining members of the detachment came from the oft frozen fastnesses of Fort Des Moines, Iowa, and of Fort Snelling, Minnesota. Each of them is a specialist in at least one military subject, such as automotive repair, radio, telephones, instruments, materials, or administration. Without their specialized knowledge, the work of the unit would be hampered severely.

"Keep 'em rolling."—The Caisson Song.

Early in September, one hundred and fifty individuals in uniform. In November, four batteries, each a compact military organization. And in December, a Corps. That, in brief, is the history of the R. O. T. C. unit during its first year.

The Corps is organized into a Regiment of Field Artillery, comprising a Band, and two Battalions, each of two Batteries. All positions of command are held by students, from Cadet Corporal to Cadet Colonel. In all the work of the Corps, the development of leadership is stressed. This may be termed its main objective—to develop leaders who can serve their communities and their nation.

Under normal conditions, the work of the Corps begins with a period of organization and basic instruction in the early fall. From this phase, the work develops to that of the battery, battalion, and regiment, climaxed in the fall by a Dad's Day Review, and an Armistice Day Parade. In the winter months, the drills are pointed toward the Military Carnival, usually held early in April. When weather conditions are such that the Corps can remain out of doors consistently, the immediate objective of the drills becomes the Sponsor's Parade, at which the Corps pays its tribute to the co-ed wing of the College. And finally, late in the year, comes the real and final objective—the Corps Area Inspection. At this Inspection, the Corps is examined by selected officers of the Regular Army, who test the year's work by question and by observation. This "exam" includes all phases of the year's work, both class and practical. As a result of their observations, the Inspectors rate the Corps, comparing it with all other Senior R. O. T. C. units in the Corps Area. The rating may be "Excellent," "Satisfactory," or "Unsatisfactory," the first-named being the highest possible—an "H."

Many colleges exist without fine buildings, shops, and laboratories. Colleges have been known to survive what must have been an austere, drab, and forbidding history without co-eds. But never has there been a college worthy of that name that did not have a band.

State, being a college, has a band. Being a good college, it has a good band. This has been true for many years. This year the band became a part of the R. O. T. C. It is uniformed, well equipped, and given instruction in marching by the R. O. T. C. Musical training now, as for the past several years, is directed by Lieutenant Guy French, whose wide musical experience and sound technical knowledge make him the ideal choice for this position.

The annual activities of the band start in the fall, with a period of organization and group training. Work is started immediately in preparation for the fall reviews and parades of the R. O. T. C., and for the home football games. The band not only furnishes incidental music during each home football game, but also stages a marching exhibition between the halves. The exhibition usually includes marching in formation, and evolutions to form letters honoring the home team and the visiting team.

Following the fall season, the band settles down to a period of "musical training" in preparation for the spring season. During the winter phase, the band provides music at home basketball games. It may also furnish one or more chapel programs, and take part in special outside events. This year, for example, the band took part in the Inaugural Parade at Little Rock in January, as the representative of Northeast Arkansas. Following the "closed" season, the band furnishes music as before for the Military Carnival, the Sponsor's Parade, and the Corps Area Inspection, in addition to college functions.

Arkansas State College has probably the youngest coaching staff in the south. And, certainly, our group of mentors is one of the most efficient.

Herbert Schwartz is the director and coordinator of all athletics on the campus, varsity and intramural. He arranges schedules, checks eligibility, and handles all details.

Leslie Speck coaches the Indians on the gridiron in the fall, and in the spring he coaches the tribe on the track.

Wendell Davis leads the basketball squad during the winter months.

Miss Amy Little is the coach of girls' sports.

Leslie and Wendell both starred in varsity competition for State College. With Speck it was the football field, and with Davis it was the basketball court.

Frank Hughey was appointed last fall to assist Coach Speck in leading the football squad.

CHEER LEADERS

James Hyatt was the 1937 head cheer leader. His troupe was chosen after a series of tests to select the most capable yell leaders.

The yell leaders helped the students cheer the Indians to victories on the gridiron, the court, and the track.

David Ellison, Wynne, was also a member of the cheer-leading squad, but illness forced his retirement.

The cheer leaders in their white uniforms with the red "A's" and red sashes, colorfully augmented State's athletic contests.

ORCHESTRA

Director - - - - - Guy French

The College Orchestra ranks with the best extra-curricular activities on the campus. The group presents many chapel programs and recitals, and always offers a variety of classical, semi-classical, and popular music, arranged to afford the greatest possible interest to the students.

Each year, the orchestra makes several trips to towns in the territory served by Arkansas State College, and presents programs in the schools, community centers, or churches for the entertainment of the residents.

Fay Clardy is the chief assistant to Guy French in the direction of the orchestra.

Athletics

We can remember when—If you can't, there are many who can tell you.

* * * * *

Everyone will remember the Art Club's mock beauty review and fashion show when David Banks, dressed as a lady athlete, walked across the stage. Bill Miller, who was the club commentator, introduced him (or "her") as "The genuine All-American Girl"; when what should happen but "Miss" David loses a tennis ball from a conspicuous part of "her" wardrobe, and immediately, and nonchalantly, took a tennis racket and bounced it off the stage. Bill then, realizing the catastrophe, covered his first remark to the audience by saying: "Well, at least almost genuine."

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF:

✓ Dr. Robey should walk up the steps of Lewis Hall?

✓ Miss Livengood would do a fan dance in chapel?

✓ Dr. Plunkett were caught reading a Whiz Bang?

Dr. Brown should lose his voice?

Glenn Spurlock—(His first airplane ride)—"Do planes like this crash often?"

Pilot—"Only once, sir."

Judge—"What makes you think this man was drunk?"

Officer—"He was having an argument with a man in an auto, your honor."

Judge—"That doesn't prove he was drunk."

Officer—"No your honor; but there wasn't any man in the car."

David Johnston—"What color is best for a bride?"

Kelly Thompson—"Oh, it's a matter of taste, but if I were you, I'd pick a white one."

* * *

Dr. Showalter—"The rapidly increasing divorce rate proves that America is fast becoming the home of the free."

Glenn Fowler—"Yes, and the continuance of the marriage rate shows that it is the home of the brave."

Mrs. McMeans—"Here's a dress advertised by Sallo Brothers that is priced at a song."

Mr. McMeans—"Well, my dear, if you expect me to furnish the notes you may as well change your tune."

Miss Livengood—"Did you get any replies to your advertisement that a lonely maiden sought light and warmth in her life?"

Miss Heuver—"Yes, two from an electric company and one from the gas people."

Friday—"What did the astrologer tell Pat White when he asked her about the best time to get married?"

McBride—"She looked at him for a moment and then told him to grab the first chance that he got."

Clarence Adams—"Do you think there is any chance of my getting my story published in your paper?"

Doll Frets—"You're the only girl in the world for me."

Hicks—"Nonsense, only one man ever said that and told the truth."

Frets—"Who was that?"

Hicks—"Adam."

The demure young maiden walked down the flower strewn aisle, her flowing wedding veil and train carried by two small girls. Her sweet little mouth was pursed in a happy smile. She stepped quietly to the side of her husband-to-be and accidentally kicked over one of the the floral containers which lined the beautiful church. The young bride raised her baby blue eyes, paused, opened her sweet little mouth, and said, "That's a hell of a place to put a flower pot."

A resident of Lewis Hall remarked that some of the girls on the campus are "putting on airs." We are glad they are putting on something.

St. Peter opened his pearly gates and asked a young man standing there, "What have you done to seek admission here?"

"I've edited a college annual," came the youth's response.

"Come right in," St. Peter said, "you've had enough of hell."

Plumber: "I've come to fix the old tub in the kitchen—"

Bill Robey: "Ma, here's the doctor to see the cook."

Leland Plunkett (absentedly) "Lady, what are you doing in my bed?"

Lady: "Well, I like this bed. I like this neighborhood. I like this house, and I like this room. And anyway, I'm your wife!"

Winford Wyatt: "In what course will you graduate?"

Bill Watson: "Oh! in the course of time."

If oo love mee, tay toe.

If oo don't love me, tay toe,

If oo love me an don't wan to tay toe, squeeze my hand.

But don't keep me tanding on dese told steps all nite.

I'm detting seepy.

I dess I'll doe in now.

Tiss me, damn it, tiss me.

Weather report seen on Cafeteria window:

"Chili today. Hot Tamale."

Sign on Theatre: "Mae West in 'It Ain't No Sin'."

Sign on tabernacle across the street "Tis too."

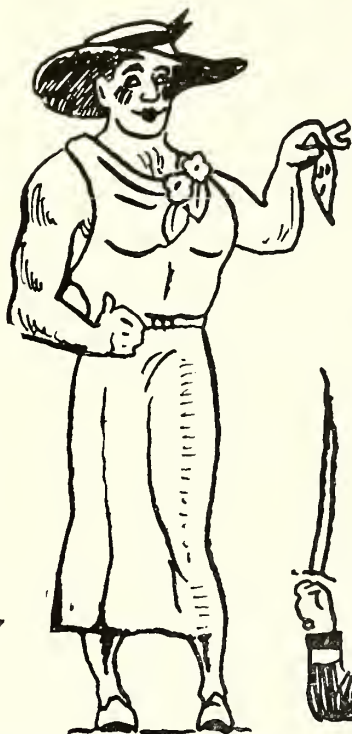

Jean Gardner: "Hi, tall, dark 'n handsome, I've got a dress with nine buttons and I can only fascinate."

While giving a performance, a magician spread a blanket over a newspaper and read the paper through the heavy cloth. All the co-eds got up and walked out.

First Co-ed: "So you were out with Bill last night. Did you say he doesn't know how to neck?"

Second Co-ed: "I said he didn't know how to neck."

AN EDITORIAL MESSAGE

Only you who know the chaos out of which this annual was born will appreciate fully the success which characterizes it, despite the hardships and disputes engendered in its formation.

Difficult enough with all conditions favorable, an annual published in the face of adversities, with the success this one enjoys, is indeed a rarity.

The 1937 Indian was financed through student subscriptions at three dollars per book, advertising, student activities, and though the annual committee's picture show and beauty revue.

The advertisers in our book deserve your patronage. Don't skip lightly through these pages, but while enjoying the humor found here, do not forget that it was the aid of these merchants which formed a strong tie in the successful publication of the Indian. Patronize them and we who publish this book will appreciate it as much as they.

Our task is completed. For the past three years we have endeavored to provide for the students of Arkansas State College a yearbook which they might treasure. We hope we have succeeded.

Arkansas State College will prosper and grow. Built with a firm foundation by the one man we have found, in our short lifetime, who possesses characteristics of genius plus a human understanding, it is here to stay. Long after this book and all connected with it have been permanently shelved, Arkansas State will remain actively engaged in moulding the intelligence and character of thousands of people.

But, in us remains a personal satisfaction that we have completed a task, which we set set for ourselves three years ago, the culmination of which brings an inward glow.—H. J. H.

LEGS

Legs to the right of us,
Legs to the left of us,
Legs in front of us,
How they display them!
On they go trippingly,
Daintily and skippingly.
Frost that bites nippingly
Does not dismay them.

Straight legs and bandy ones,
Bum legs and dandy ones,
Awkward and handy ones,
Flirt with the breeze;
Round legs and flatter ones,
Thin legs and fatter ones—
Especially the latter ones
Showing their knees.

Knock-kneed and bony ones,
Real legs and phony ones,
Silk covered tony ones,
Second to none,
Straight and distorted ones,
Mates and ill-sorted ones,
Home and imported ones—
Ain't we got fun?

Reformer: "Stop. Do you think a glass of that vile stuff will quench your thirst?"

College Lad: "No, sir. I'm gonna drink the whole jug."

"Last night I had an awful pain in my arms."
"Who was she?"

KICK

Two Scotchmen were watching a football game: one had a bottle, the other had only a thirst. The bottle-man was talking very largely about his knowledge of the game and what a fine player he was himself.

During the conversation he helped himself very liberally to the contents of his bottle, whereupon the thirsty one said: "Well, I notice ye're a fine dribbler, but ye're nae guid at passing."

GIVE HER A HAND

"Help your wife," says Good Housekeeping.
"When she mops up the floor, mop up the floor with her."

WOMEN ARE LIKE

1. a book—always bound to please.
2. an auto—needs choking every so often.
3. a train—often gets on the wrong track.
4. a party platform—subject to change without notice.
5. a stove—often needs a new lid.
6. a bed spring—cannot be squelched.
7. a chair—often needs to be sat on.
8. a pipe—inclined to be puffed, at times.
9. a fire—apt to flare up and be put out.
10. a callous—it takes hard work to get it, it hurts when you have it, but you sort of miss it when it's gone.

SORORITY SUE SAYS:

A cheap skate doesn't cut much ice.

Having your face lifted is generally a pleasant operation.

Two heads are better than one when they're on the same shoulder.

A flirtation is just an empty spoon. . . . Yes, just an empty spoon.

Girls are like snowballs. The harder you squeeze them, the faster they melt.

Love makes the world go 'round. Looking for places to park.

SOBER REFLECTION

A backwoods mountaineer found a mirror which a tourist had lost.

"Well, if it ain't my old dad," he said, as he looked into the mirror. "I never knewed he had his pitcher took."

He took it home. That night while he slept, his wife found the mirror."

"Hum-um," she said looking into it, "so that's the old hag he's been chasin'."

For years the two sexes have been racing for supremacy. Now they have settled down to neck and neck.

It's a wise chicken who knows when she has had enough corn.

Dr. Cutem: "Do you think your son will forget everything he learned in college?"

Dr. Open—"I hope so—he can't make a living necking."

He: "Just one kiss, dearest."

She: "No, dear, we haven't time. Father will be home in an hour."
